Use the acclimation time to unpack the planks and inspect the product. Our laminate floors come with a legion of installation benefits. If needed you can use a pull bar to insert the last row because it can often be a little awkward. This should be done at least 48 hours before the laminate boards are replaced so I will update this guide in the future to include more detailed information on how to install these, in the meantime you can check out this video. Share yours! Leave some space for expansion of the flooring material. Every plank that you use needs a groove and a ridge unless it goes on the perimeter. Be sure to maintain a mm distance to walls, heating ducts, pillars, door stoppers, etc.
